MILITARY MEN OPTIMISTIC

Our Officers at Manila Think the Trouble Nearly Ended. Manila, Jan. 15.—Optimism is taking the place of conservatism among the military men here, the cause being the numerous surrenders, captures and destruction of insurgent camps, coupled with the increasing understanding of the American intention among the natives, the propagation of the principles of the Federal party and the knowledge that they are approved by the Philippine commission and the military authorities, and that the carrying out of the terms of General MacArthur's proclamation classing all who do things inimical to the interests of the army as rebels and traitors, are having marked effect, with the offering of local autonomy and protection, and showing the certainty of the punishment of those who remain rebellious.

The cutting of communications and supplies has destroyed the remnants of the insurgent organization. The inhabitants of the towns are disinclined to any longer contribute secretly to a hopeless cause, and it is generally believed that the pacification of a sufficient number of provinces to inaugurate a general scheme of provincial government will be accomplished before many more weeks have elapsed. The most pronounced resistance at present is in remote southern Luzon, northern Mindanao, Cebu and Bohol.

RECALLS A TERRIBLE WRECK.

Location of the Ill-Fated Chicora Is at Last Established.

St. Joseph, Mich., Jan. 15.—That the wreck of the steamer Chicora lies a few miles to the southwest of this harbor was confirmed yesterday morning by finding a bunch of brass baggage checks. The word "Chicora" was engraved upon the face of the checks, and they were identified by the Graham & Morton Co. as property from the lost steamer. The steamer Chicora, founded in Lake Michigan, on Jan. 21, 1885, and the crew of twenty-one persons was lost.

Although wreckage came ashore the following spring at various northern points, and many mariners believed the steamer never reached this shore, it is agreed in marine circles now that the steamer on the fatal night did reach the eastern shore at this point, but forgoing the bar at night, and during the night, she was subsequently notified of the finding of the body and she saw the body when it was brought home that evening.

Kerr told him a party of four would use the back, and ordered him to drive to Seale's saloon.

Advice From a Butcher. "What the newspapers should do is to devote less space to describing what people should wear and more to what they should eat," remarked the butcher. ## JENNIE BOSSCHIETER

Trial of Three Men for the Foul Crime that Disgraced New Jersey.

NO TROUBLE IN GETTING A JURY

Hack Driver Tells of Diabolism That Capped the Glimpse to Total Depravity.

New York, Jan. 14.—The trial of Walter T. McAllister, Andrew Campbell and William A. Death, three of the four men accused of the murder of Jennie Bosschietter, a mill girl of Paterson, N. J., under circumstances revolting in their utter lack of humanity, commenced yesterday before Judge Dixon, in the Passaic county court of oyer and terminer.

George J. Kerr, the fourth man under indictment, was not in court, as he has been granted a separate trial on the ground that he was not present when the fatal dose was administered to the girl. Before the trial was begun it was expected that at least two days would be necessary to complete the jury, but Judge Dixon carried the proceedings on with such vigor that within one hour after the court was called to order he had empaneled his twelve jurors and heard the opening lines of the address of the prosecuting attorney.

Victim's Stepmother Testifies. Mrs. Nina Bosschietter, Jennie Bosschietter's stepmother, was the first witness. Mrs. Bosschietter said Jennie left the house about 8 p. m. on the 18th of October, and said she was going to a drug store in the neighborhood. At 10 p. m. Jennie had not returned and Mrs. Bosschietter went to bed. She got up at about 5:30 in the morning to prepare breakfast. She did not know then that Jennie had not been home during the night. She was subsequently notified of the finding of the body and she saw the body when it was brought home that evening.

Cross-examination by Dr. Dunn. Mrs. Bosschietter said that Jennie sometimes remained out late at night but she always thought that the girl stopped with some friends.

the road to Lee's place. Lee's place was closed, so they pulled up into the rock road.

WHEN THE CRIME WAS COMMITTED

Details of the Foullest Deed Done in a Decade Anywhere.

They went along this to a point beyond the railroad tracks, he was then ordered to stop. The place where he stopped was a clear one with no bushes. All four men left the carriage. They lifted the girl out about as they lifted her in. He had thrown the blanket on his horse. One of the men took it off and it was carried into the darkness, where the woman had been borne. Schulthorpe, in a rough voice that could be heard with fearful effect in the court room, told the most horrible part of his story. Kerr only was exempt from participation in the assault, which the back driver described. With brutal roughness, without the slightest attempt to conceal facts under the nice words, in the language of the streets Schulthorpe told the occurrences of that stop on Rock road. Then the girl was carried back to the back and placed on the rear seat. At that time the girl's head was hanging far back. The men in the back were alarmed, and a little past the school house on the Red road they stopped again and the men tried to revive the girl. The witness then told of the drive back to Paterson, of the examination by the physician, which ended with the remark: "Boys, I can do nothing for you!"

The men ordered him to drive back across the river. The witness then told of the disposal of the body where it was found. He drove the four men back. McAllister and Kerr left the back first and the former handed him $10 and said: "You know what to do; keep your mouth shut."

"Did you see any evidence of life in the girl after you started from the saloon?" asked Prosecutor Emley. "Yes, she rose up, kind of straightened up, and then fell back again."

Christopher said the saloonkeeper at whose place the girl was drugged said the party first ordered beer. He saw McAllister, Campbell, Death and a girl were seated at a table. McAllister ordered a bottle of champagne. Witness carried it and glasses into the room. He then had to go to the cellar and when he emerged the party was gone.

"Did you see any of the party the next day?" "Yes, Mr. McAllister, the next morning, said to me 'that girl is dead.' I said 'I have nothing to do with it.' McAllister said I would not give them away if any one came around. He said even if a big reward were offered I should stick by him."
